Dear Parishioners,

Though the actual commemoration of our country's independence from Great Britain is observed on Monday, I know it is important to speak on it today. There are very disturbing trends at work among our own people in our own families that do not at first glance bode well for the future liberty and prosperity of our country. And when making a negative statement like that, I always start by looking at myself first, to see what I can do better to promote and defend the genuine understanding of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

Please friends, read! Don't read just what I write, but dig for your news. I was in media in college 27-30 years ago, and could see the trend away from reporting truth already happening. While the internet is useful for truth, it does much damage by spreading gossip and falsehood instantaneously. Maybe this is part of why the ancient Jews of the bible relied on the eye witness testimony of three individuals before establishing a fact!

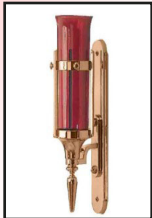

Help your children and grandchildren understand that they need to read beyond what is printed, to discern what agendas a writer may be promoting, as they come to full comprehension of an article. Word choices in stories can convey powerful positive or negative attitudes on a subject. Consider how much the word "choice" is used in the abortion debate. Choice as a word sounds like a positive. We know all too well the negative meaning of pro-choice on the abortion issue though.

Words are powerful. Life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness rely on an informed population to keep them going. Our Catholic faith helps to form and inform our consciences. Use that Catholic faith as you remember the courage, sacrifice and earthly wisdom of our nation's founders to help you and your family continue to be beacons for life, liberty and genuine happiness in Christ. God bless America! And Americans, bless God in word and deed!
